

HELD

On the Charge of Murder.

Dayton, O., Oct. 24.—(Spl.)—Mrs. Mary Belle Witwer was bound over to the Common Pleas court without bond Wednesday afternoon by Police Judge Snediker to answer to the charge of murder in the first degree for the alleged poisoning of her sister, Mrs. Anna C. Pugh, a well known nurse in the city whose death occurred on Sept. 29, after two days' violent illness.

The woman who is charged with this murder and accused of thirteen others betrayed no sign of emotion when Judge Snediker made the announcement. Judge Snediker expressed the hope that the Grand Jury and police would prosecute vigorously the investigations which have been begun.

When the state rested yesterday afternoon, Attorney L. G. Long, counsel for the defense, made a motion to have the case dismissed. Judge Snediker refused to entertain the motion.

FIRST CLASS.

Glowing Reports of "A Secret Warrant," Here Tonight.

Willis Granger, starring in a "Secret Warrant" will appear at the Grand Opera house tonight. The play has scored an immense success wherever it has been. Costumes and scenery are said to be fine and the production first class in every respect. The plot takes the audience back to the year 1720, when the Bastille was the destination of all who refused to favor the whims of their king.

MORGAN-WRIGHT MAN COMES HERE.

He Has Purchased Interest In the Guarantee Co.

Charles C. Kelley, an experienced rubber man of Chicago, has bought the interest of R. T. Griffiths in the Guarantee Rubber Co., and will come to Akron as president and manager of that company. There has been some talk along the line of Mr. Kelley also purchasing the interest of O. C. Herick in the Guarantee Co. In Mr. Kelley, Akron gains a man who knows his business. He learned it during years of service with the Morgan & Wright people.

Still Unidentified.

The man found in the cemetery in a helpless condition Tuesday and who afterward died at the city prison has not yet been identified. It was at first reported that he was a Barborton man.

ern days, but the report was found afterward to be incorrect. The remains are still at Parks' Morgue.

SCHLEY

May Take the Stand Today.

Washington, Oct. 24.—(Spl.)—Anticipating that Schley would take the stand, himself, today in his own defense an immense crowd attended the inquiry. Fully half could not be accommodated with seats. If Schley appears in the witness chair today it will be late in the afternoon.

The record of the testimony given by the Schley court of inquiry already comprises more than 1,400 printed pages. The number of words is more than 600,000. It is probable that the remaining testimony and the arguments will bring the number up to 750,000. Congress is the only other attraction in Washington that gets more language on record.

Chief Bontz Wm. L. Hill, of the Brooklyn, whose dramatic recital of Schley's bravery moved the spectators to applaud yesterday, wears a medal of honor that was voted to him by special act of Congress. Hill won this recognition by jumping overboard in a fog near Newport and rescuing a boy. Hill in his testimony yesterday, laid stress on Schley's thoughtfulness in preventing the body of Ellis from being thrown overboard.

"The Commodore was so cool," said Hill today, "that I believe even though a battle was going on he thought of that man's relatives. He knew that they would desire the body to be given proper burial, that Ellis' bravery entitled him to some services before he was put away, and he acted accordingly."

While we are planning and preparing to convert this store into a greater shopping headquarters. Easy stairs and latest improved elevators to reach any floor in the building, are being placed throughout the two large buildings, thus making it a pleasure to trade in any part of the store.
